

Artist Paula Robertson

Paula vowed to pursue art in earnest when she retired from teaching in Maine, relocated to Pawleys Island and is now residing in Myrtle Beach. As an artist she journeys between watercolor and other water mediums. The challenges of moving from one medium to the other and interpreting an image in various styles keeps her motivated. Paula enjoys experimenting with new techniques and artistic expressions. Her latest interests include playing with texture, abstracted pieces, collage, torn paper art, but above all she loves working with watercolor on yupo which encourages freedom to let the paint do its thing! Her final creations emphasize strong, vibrant colors.

Paula has been the recipient of several awards in annual judged and juried exhibitions in the Waccamaw Arts and Crafts Guild Exhibits, the Seacoast Artists Guild Shows in Myrtle Beach, the Old Santee Canal Fine Art Exhibitions and The Rice Museum in Georgetown.
